Welcome to the new EHS newsletter, Spotlight on Safety! We hope you enjoy all the useful information in this and every issue (scroll down for more great EHS content).

Spotlight on Safety replaces The Waste Paper, our longstanding publication for laboratory users. While The Waste Paper served us well, we want to ensure we reach the entire campus community when it comes to health and safety.

Spotlight on Safety will cover a range of topics, from workplace safety and occupational health and wellness, to information on training and other educational opportunities. Of course, we will also continue to address lab safety and proper waste disposal practices.

Look for us in your inbox four times a year, with occasional alerts in between. Feel free to forward this email. Members of the University community can subscribe here:

Sue Dupre Retires

Our longtime Radiation Safety Officer, Sue Dupre, retired at the end of June. We honored Sue’s many years of service with a party at Prospect House.
Sue Dupre first joined Princeton University in 1978 as a radiation safety officer. At the time, she was one of five individuals overseeing the use of radiation on campus.
